The Ultimate High-Low Dallas Dining Guide

Dallas' varied dining scene is such that one can find a restaurant splurge and budget eats within a stone's throw, in any given corner of the city. We decided to compile a list of popular dining categories in which you can satisfy both ends of the spending spectrum, with upscale eats and bargain dining.

Barbecue

The High: Smoke ($18 for coffee-cured brisket, pickles and potato salad)

Why it's Worth it: Tim Byres' sure hand ensures beautifully seasoned meat and just the right amount of time in the smoker.

The Low: Off The Bone BBQ (pictured; $11 for brisket and two sides)

Perks/Trade-offs: It's a much smaller dining room than Smoke's, but the unforgettable ribs, chicken and brisket, as well as desserts that taste like Mom's, will have you coming back.
